SOVIET RUSSIA SECURES PEACE

Signs Treaty with Poland Friday Night.

UKRAINIA IS ALSO PARTY TO PEACE

State of War Covering Last Year Is Ended.

Peace Pact Is the Result of a Conference at Riga, at Which Leaders of Nations Concerned Meet—The Terms.

Riga, March 19.—The peace treaty between soviet Russia and Poland was signed here at 8:30 o'clock, Friday night. Ukrainia is party to the treaty and the Ukrainia representatives put their signatures upon it. The signing of the Polish treaty of peace, ending a state of war that had existed for a year, was the third triumph of the Russian soviet government within a week. A few days earlier, the government had succeeded in putting down the anti-Bolshevik uprising at Kronstadt and about the same time a commercial agreement was signed with Great Britain.

The Russians, according to the treaty terms, will pay Poland 30,000,000 gold roubles—$15,000,000. Soviet Russia has one year in which to pay this sum.

The final session of the peace conference began at 8:30 o'clock. The hall was decorated with flags and it was strange to note that there were several pictures of former Russian czars upon the walls. Dr. Joffe, head of the Russian delegation, and M. Domski, head of the Polish delegation, were two conspicuous figures at the head of the table.

After the signatures had been affixed, Dr. Joffe took occasion to speak of the present status of soviet Russia.

"The soviet government at Moscow is getting stronger every day," said Dr. Joffe. "That is evident from the public developments. They are open for the whole world to see."

The full text of the treaty was read during the ceremonies. M. Domski opened this part of the formalities by reading the first ten clauses. Dr. Joffe followed, reading the second ten. The last six were read by M. Potchuvinsky, of the Ukrainian delegation.

After the signatures had been put upon the document, Dr. Joffe and M. Domski reached across the table and cordially shook hands with one another.

Moving Offices.

Duesseldorf, March 19.—A number of manufacturers and business men are moving their offices to Berlin, Hanover and other interior cities of Germany and some are transferring their entire plants. Many wealthy persons also are moving into the interior.

Business in Duesseldorf is extremely dull and restaurants are empty, but many Frenchmen and their families are beginning to crowd the shopping district.

Patriotic Duty.

Berlin, March 19.—The central committee of the German wholesale trade organization adopted a resolution yesterday, declaring it to be the patriotic duty of German merchants to refrain from purchasing non-essential goods from the countries concerned in the imposition of the economic penalties on Germany.

Reparations Bill.

London, March 19.—The house of commons, last night, passed the third reading of the reparations bills. The bill provides for a levy of fifty per cent. on German goods, but this provision will not be effective until March 31.

J. Austen Chamberlain, chancellor of the exchequer, replying to the house of commons today to an argument that the German reparation bill to be effective must be applied by the allies, said the bill might operate either as a penalty or as a means of collection of reparations.

Which of these characters the measure took on, he asserted, depended upon the action of the Germans.

If the Germans wished to draw penalty upon themselves, Mr. Chamberlain said, they could draw it, but if they wished to avoid penalty and pay a portion of their debts for reparations, the bill would not act as punishment, but as a method of collection.

Even if Great Britian stood alone in this matter, Mr. Chamberlain said he believed the exclusion of German goods from Great Britian markets would be sufficient to compel her to render satisfaction to British demands. The proceeds of the bill, the chancellor added, would be applied to the payment of British claims and the disposal of any surplus would be left over for discussion by the allies.

INDICTMENTS ARE FOUND IN TOLEDO

Toledo, March 19.—Indictments against nineteen men and women in connection with the robbery of United States mail, February 17, when more than $1,000,000 in bonds and currency was stolen, were returned, late yesterday, by the federal grand jury. Of the nineteen indicted, eighteen are under arrest.

ONLY GIRL IN 344 WITH PERFECT FEET

Miss Clara Newton, the only girl of 344 examined at the University of Kansas, who was found to have perfect feet. She was born in China and imitated the coolies. The revelations came through a series of pedeographs made of the girls at the university. Miss Newton said she always went barefooted and tried to imitate the coolies in exercising her toes.

CONFESSION OF MURDER MADE

Virgil Decker Gives Full Details of Crime.

ADMITS KILLING OF LEROY LOVETT

Clears All Others of Complicity in Murder.

Authorities Are Convinced That Decker Has Assistance and Advice of Others—Alleged Plot To Get Insurance.

Warsaw, Indiana, March 19.—A complete confession, in which he admitted the killing of Leroy Lovett, of Elkhart, at Atwood, last Saturday and cleared others of complicity in the murder, was made, early today, by Virgil Decker, eighteen, held in the Kosciusko county jail since Wednesday, following his arrest in Marion, Indiana, where he fled after the slaying.

Decker told Mrs. Charles B. Moon, wife of the county sheriff, that "the devil made him do it."

This is the only explanation that Decker gives for the crime. His signed confession relates that Lovett and himself were sleeping in the cabin on the Tippecanoe river, near Atwood, that he awoke first and struck Lovett over the head with an iron bar.

"Then I left the cottage," reads the statement. "I thought he was dead."

When Decker returned, several hours later, according to his confession, Lovett had pulled himself from the couch where he was sleeping when he was hit and was leaning against the side of the cabin.

Lovett was able to walk at this time, Decker said, and he was assisted into the buggy, which was driven to the railroad crossing and left there to be struck by the next train.

Decker's confession has not altered plans of county officials for the special session of the grand jury, which has been called for Monday.

No mention was made by Decker of the alleged plot to defraud insurance companies of nearly $30,000 and authorities here believe that the grand jury investigation will reveal that Decker did not kill Lovett without advice or assistance from other persons.

PREPARED TO ADMIT TURKEY

Allies Would Give Country Place in World League.

MUST HAVE ASSURANCE OF GOOD INTENTIONS

And Faithfully Observe Treaty of Sevres.

The American State Department Gets Official Advices Today—Situation Over in Germany Is Still Complex.

Washington, March 19.—The allies are prepared to admit Turkey into the league of nations, on proof of her readiness to faithfully execute the treaty of Sevres, according to official advices to the state department, which made public, today, the modifications to the treaty agreed upon by the allied supreme council in London, in February.

Advice Given.

Berlin, March 19.—The German committee of experts which has been advising the government on the indemnity matter, is demanding that Germany formally withdraw the counter-proposals on indemnity which were given to the allies by Walter Simons, the foreign minister, at the London conference, it was learned today. The experts have advised the ogevrnment that the counter-proposals could not have been fulfilled even if the allies had accepted them. It is expected that Germany will send a note to London, at once, withdrawing the counter-terms.

Seven Killed.

London, March 19.—Seven persons were killed and one is missing as the result of a violent six-hour battle between Sinn Feiners and British crown forces, near Dungarvan, Ireland, said an Exchange Telegraph despatch from Dungarvan, today.

One British soldier was killed and another is missing.

Six of the attackers were killed by troops.

Zone Extended.

Duesseldorf, March 19.—The occupation area has been extended from Duisburg to stations all along the railroad running from Duisburg to Essen, and to within two and a half miles of Essen.

The central freight yard at Wedau, the largest in the Ruhr district, and Mulheim station are guarded by French troops.

A New Problem.

Washington, March 19.—Allied occupation of additional German territory is understood to have presented to President Harding a new problem arising from a relation of these changed conditions to previous plans for early declaration by congress of the ending of the state of war between the United States and Germany.

Some congressional leaders who all along have been for a peace resolution still think that solution should be applied as soon as possible.

Other leaders, however, who are known to be very close to the fear that it would cause embarrassment to the nations with which the United States was associated in the war and should be deferred until the situation in Germany which caused the occupation had clarified itself.

President Harding is represented as having approached his study of the question with the view that the United States should exercise caution in whatever steps it determines to take in order that there should be no complications of the already difficult situation faced by the allies.

In line with this viewpoint attention has been called that American troops are in Germany as a war measure and not under any treaty provision.

Termination of the war, it is argued, would automatically require withdrawal and the present administration, though Secretary of War Weeks has stated that this is not under contemplation.

Bishop to Address Students.

Alliance, O., March 19.—Bishop Thomas Nicholson of Chicago, has been selected to deliver the Carr address at Mount Union college this year. The address is to be delivered before the student body, Tuesday, March 29.

Stock Market.

New York, March 19.—The stock market displayed a steady undertone at the opening, today. Price changes were generally confined to fractions and in most cases, were slightly below yesterday's final figures.

MRS. MAUDE MILLER IS FOUND NOT GUILTY

Is Tried for Murder of Husband in Cleveland Court.

Cleveland, March 19.—A verdict of "not guilty" was returned in Judge Florence L. Allen's court, this morning, in the case of Mrs. Maude Miller, charged with having murdered her husband, the night of December 31. Mrs. Miller declared that she shot her husband, mistaking him for a burglar. The state contended that she had confessed to having killed him following a quarrel.

DRESS CREATIONS ABOVE CRITICISM

London, March 19.—The first spring dress creations to reach here from Paris would pass the severest censor without criticism. The chief difference from existing modes demonstrated by the new models exhibited at the fashion salons, are longer and fuller skirts, disappearance of low necks on afternoon frocks, appearance of high collars of soft muslin and an increase in the amount of lace and embroidery.

PRESIDENT IS AGAINST PACT

Will Not Resubmit Versailles Treaty to Senate.

CLEARLY INDICATES ATTITUDE IN MATTER

Expected To Adhere Closely to Program He Outlines During Presidential Campaign.

Washington, March 19.—In the face of persistent reports that France will attempt to secure American participation in a modified league of nations, President Harding stated clearly that he would not resubmit the peace treaty to the senate.

The president added that even with the removal of such objectionable features as article 10 and the Shantung agreement, he will not consent to place the treaty, embodying the covenant of the league, before the senate for ratification.

The approaching visit of Rene Viviani, former premier of France, has caused proponents of the league to believe that this issue, considered dead by President Harding and his advisors, can be revived.

Such a belief has no grounds of support, it can be authoritatively stated. The president regards the "solemn referendum" of the November elections as absolutely expressive of the overwhelming will of the American people to have nothing to do with the league or any other form of foreign entanglements.

Following the cabinet meeting President Harding called in the newspaper correspondents and clearly indicated that he would not submit the treaty of Versailles to the senate. Reports to the effect that the president might look with favor upon a denatured form of the league were branded as untrue.

Determination to scrap the league issue does not mean that he is to disregard his campaign pledge that America should "play her part" in attempting to bring about permanent world peace. Those who have recently conferred with the president are authority for the belief that he adheres strictly to the program which he outlined in the early days of the campaign. This calls for an entirely new association of nations which would agree to the submission of international disputes to a world court of arbitration. The president is known to have evolved what he believes to be a concrete, practical plan for this new association, and will submit it for the consideration of the senate before the end of the new session.

PLAN REPLY TO WARNING NOTE

President and Leaders of Panama Republic Confer.

AN ANTI-AMERICAN FEELING DEVELOPS

Following Receipt of Note from Secretary Hughes.

Strikers on Mexican Railroads Are Ordered To Return to Work—Will Be Reinstated in Old Places, It Is Said.

Balboa, March 19.—President Porras, of the republic of Panama, held a long conference, Friday night, with about fifty of the foremost political leaders and he is expected to send a reply to Secretary of State Hughes' warning note, this afternoon.

Considerable anti-American feeling has been engendered among the radical element in Panama by the American note warning Panama to make up her territorial difference with Costa Rica without any further delay.

Panama officials expressed disappointment over the tone of the note, but said that they expected the government to comply with the requests of the United States.

Mexican Strike.

Mexico City, March 19.—Following a long conference between President Obregon, Secretary of the Treasury de la Huerta and officials of the Federation of Railway workers, it was announced that all the demands of the railway strikers had been withdrawn and that the strikers had been ordered to return to work today. The strikers will be reinstated in their old jobs as quickly as possible, it was said. The officials of the rail federation were said to have been influenced by the firmness of the government and the failure of unions to support the rail men with sympathy strikes.

Bandit Is Shot.

Mexico City, March 19.—Pedro Zamora, for the past ten years one of the most formidable bandits operating along the western coast of Mexico, is dead as the result of wounds received in a recent battle with federal troops near the town of Zamzontla, state of Jalisco. His body was identified by a number of his followers. The dead bandit was associated with various revolutionary factions for years. He was first a lieutenant of Villa, after which he joined Zapata, but finally he operated independently in the states of Jalisco, Michoacan and Colima.

FAMOUS HUMORIST DIES OF PNEUMONIA

Passes Away in Chicago Early This Morning.

Chicago, March 18.—Bert Leston Taylor, known as "B. L. T." nationally famous humorist, died at 3:39 o'clock this morning at his home here, after an illness of two weeks with bronchial pneumonia.

Taylor's column "the Line-O'-Type," which he inaugurated in the Chicago Tribune in 1901, became one of the best known humorous columns in the American newspaper field. Besides this column, Taylor, under the signature of "B. L. T." wrote several books of humorous verse and prose.

"B. L. T." was born in Gresham, Massachusetts, in 1866, and was educated at the College of the City of New York. Before coming to the Chicago Tribune, he was editor of newspapers in Greenville, New Hampshire and Duluth, Minnesota.

In 1895, he married Miss Emma Bonner, of Providence, Rhode Island. She and two daughters survive him.

TWO POSITIONS ARE DECLINED BY HERT

Kentucky Republican Leader Can Not Accept Offers.

Washington, March 19. — A. T. Hert, republican national committeeman from Kentucky, has declined two positions and thanked the president-ing. It was announced at the White House, today. The president first offered Hert an ambassadorship and when this was declined, he offered him a place on the legislative commission to reorganize the executive branch.

Hert stated that it would be impossible for him to accept either appointment and thanked the president for the offers.

EVIDENCE UNDER THE CRABBE ACT

Cleveland, March 19.—Evidence of violation of the Crabbe act obtained without a legal search warrant is worthless, according to a decision handed down by the court of appeals here, reversing the Cleveland municipal court, in which Judge Stevens had held that it was immaterial how the evidence had been obtained.

SHE WANTS $10,000 FOR FAULTY DIAGNOSIS

Miss May Morrison, of New York, who has brought suit for $10,000 damages against Dr. Julius Bondy, a prominent physician, alleging "wrong diagnosis." In her complaint Miss Morrison alleges that during August, 1919, she became ill and that Dr. Bondy diagnosed her illness as cramps and prescribed treatment and medicine. She further alleged that after the third day of his treatment she became violently ill and was removed to a hospital, where she was found to be suffering from acute gangrenous appendicitis. She remained in the hospital for five weeks. The physician makes a general denial of the allegation.

INFORMATION ON RUSS TRADE

Being Sought by Business Men of America.

REQUESTS SWAMP STATE DEPARTMENT

Little Hope of a Resumption of Trade Soon.

Commercial Treaty of Great Britain and Soviet Russia Is Arousing Business Men in This Country to Action.

Washington, March 19.—The state department has been swamped, during the past two days, with requests from American business firms for information regarding the possibilities of trade with Russia since the reported signing of an agreement between Great Britain and the soviet government, for the resumption of commercial relations.

Almost without exception, those seeking information are of the opinion that the British agreement may clear the way for the opening of some sort of trade relations between the United States and Russia. Though the state department has received little more than the official confirmation of the signing of the trade pact and officials are, therefore, withholding comment, it was learned, today, that the department has not changed its attitude toward Russia and American business men are being advised that there is apparently little hope of an immediate resumption of trade on any considerable scale.

The new pact is expected by officials here to prove of political, rather than economic significance.

Though no great increase in the amount of commodities exchanged is looked for immediately, it is believed that both Russia and Great Britain will benefit by the agreement. It is admitted, however, that later on a considerable trade might be built up, provided a workable system of credits can be devised.

SHAPING UP FOR SEPARATE PACT

Ways Out of Treaty Tangle Being Considered.

GREAT INTEREST IN VISIT OF VIVIANI

Is Being Shown by Officials in Washington.

President Harding Has Not Taken Up Treaty Mess with the Senate, but Discusses the Matter Informally.

Washington, March 19.—While President Harding has not yet undertaken any serious discussions with Republican leaders of the senate, there is a widespread belief among them that conditions are so shaping up that a separate peace between the United States and Germany is going to prove the only way out of the treaty tangle.

Nothing definite will be done in the matter of shaping up a program until it is seen what propositions the foreign envoys have to offer. M. Viviani, the French representative, is due to arrive in Washington before the opening of the new congress, to plead the cause of the league. He probably will be followed by representatives of other countries.

President Harding, himself, has emphasized that he has not taken up seriously the treaty tangle with his erstwhile colleagues on the senate foreign relations committee. He has, nevertheless, discussed the situation generally and informally with several senators and those with whom he has talked have come away from the White House convinced that Harding will never resubmit the treaty, either with the reservations or without it, or with or without article 10.

It is generally believed in Washington that M. Viviani is coming to the United States to suggest to President Harding that the senate take the treaty and ratify it with any changes it sees fit, but ratify it, in some way or other, so as to preserve an outward semblance at least of the war-time solidarity of the great powers.

Concrete Proposals.

If M. Viviani does make some concrete proposals along these lines, it is the belief of a number of influential Republican senators that they will be turned down at the White House.

The status of the Knox resolution, declaring an end to the state of war with Germany is unsettled. It will not be introduced, however, until there is some clarification of the Rhine situation. While present indications make a separate peace appear not unlikely, there is no desire on the part of either the White House or the senate to provide Germany with any moral support by widening the Franco-British-American breach just when military maneuvers are in progress again. The Knox resolution, for the present, has been pigeonholed. It may be pulled out at any time, or it may stay there, depending upon the turn of events.

BEAN IN WINDPIPE IS CAUSE OF DEATH

Akron Babe Is Victim of an Unusual Accident.

Akron, March 19.—Erline Pederson, two-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Pederson, is dead here, as the result of a bean lodging in her windpipe. She picked it up while playing on the floor. The mother called a physician when the child went into a spasm of choking, but the infant had recovered by the time he arrived and he thought that the bean had passed into the stomach. During the night, the child started choking again and was dead before the physician could return.

Injured by Bandits.

Hillsboro, O., March 19.—B. Everhart, of Mainbridge, was seriously injured when attacked by two men who had concealed themselves in his home this morning. The two assailants fled. Bloodhounds traced the bandits to the railroad where they boarded a freight passing through the village soon after the attack.

Million Dollar Hotel.

Hamilton, March 19.—Initial steps have been taken by the chamber of commerce for the construction of a million-dollar hotel in Hamilton. Because of the lack of hotel accommodations, business men say many conventions and public gatherings [illegible] hence from [illegible]

LAST CHAPTER OF BIG TRIAL

Tense Situation in Court-Room at Williamson.

ARMED MEN ARE PROTECTING COURT

Danger Lurks in Every Action and Word in Trial of Sixteen Men for Murder.

Williamson, West Virginia, March 19.—Sobs broke the silence in which the crowd that packed the court-room listened, today, to the closing plea of the defense in the trigger trial. J. J. Conliff, of Wheeling West Virginia, made an impassioned argument in behalf of the sixteen men from Matewan accused of the murder of Detective Albert C. Felts. Now and then a man in defendants' row would clear his throat and at one time, when Conliff compared Albert Felts to Judas Iscariot someone in the audience exclaimed

"Amen, brother, amen!"

Aside from such interruptions as those an almost uncanny quiet reigned as Conliff spoke.

So keen was the "trigger" tension that one almost wished for someone to shout something—just anything—to relieve the atmosphere. It is suppression of feelings that has surcharged the air here ever since the trial began, January 26. And it is that very suppression which is the most dangerous factor in the situation.

A woman is carried out of the court-room as this is written. She has fainted. Suppression is the answer.

In the open door behind Judge Robert D. Bailey's bench stands High Sheriff Pinson, a small man of almost frail type—little physique but lots of personality and brains. He is suppression personified. His is the most harrying, the most delicate job in Mingo county. Detectives Albert and Lee Felts were Shriners in the same lodge with him.

The sixteen men that sit in defendants' row—many of them have their wives beside them—are the men who helped elect him, last fall. The union miners' vote made him what he is.

His intelligent brown eyes coolly survey the audience as Conliff warms up in his speech to the jury.

No Utterance.

Not a syllable, pro or con, has been uttered by Sheriff Pinson since the trial started.

Deputy sheriffs and state policemen, each heavily armed, are plentiful in the court-room.

Conliff violently assailed the Baldwin-Felts detective agency which, he says, "is trying to amass a fortune by wrecking the miners' union."

He has words of warm commendation for Sid Hatfield, the young chief of police at Matewan and the principal defendant. He refers to yesterday's arraignment of "Smiling Sid," by John Marcum, for the state.

"Sid may smile and smile and smile," said Conliff, "but he will not raise a finger against any man unless it is to uphold the law."

The "trigger" tension that reigns in this court-room extends all over Mingo county.

A verdict of "guilty as charged in the indictment" carries with it the death penalty—hanging.

It is within the jury's discretion to recommend life imprisonment.

It will be one or the other of these verdicts—or a "hung jury."

Much money has been bet all over Mingo that there will be a "hung jury," which means disagreement.

But Judge Bailey's instructions include an urgent exhortation to the jury to reach a verdict, to "forget pride of opinion and listen to each other's argument."

The ominous dread of trouble the main causes of which were exclusively set forth by the International News service correspondent two days ago, not only continues, but grows fouler.

State Police.

The state police, of whom there are between forty and fifty here, constitute the main protection here in addition to Sheriff Pinson's force of deputies.

The state police are, on the whole a force of well disciplined, cool headed and efficient force of men. They came here under handicaps but quickly won general respect for their demeanor.

But there are some boneheads among the younger ones. Two days ago three or four of this type went around town buttonholing every newspaperman with the question "Do you write for the Federationist?"

The latter is the organ of the miners' union.

From one announced they were looking for Neil Burkinshaw, a Washington lawyer, who has qualified as member of counsel for the defendants.

"If we find him, we will blow his brains out," said one of the young uniformed enthusiasts.

"We'll beat the stuffing out of him," said another.

"We'll make it so hot for him he'll get out in short order," was another's threat.

It developed that Burkinshaw's name had appeared over some articles in the Federationist which displeased some of the state police. Burkinshaw has arrived here and now sits at the defense attorneys' table. Captain J. R. Brockus, in charge of the men here, assured him that he would warn his men to "eschew such tactics."

Closing Argument.

By Judge Joseph Sanders of Bluefield West Virginia, made the closing argument for the state this afternoon. He went over much the same ground covered by Captain Reed Asts. John Marcum and Wade Bronson, the county prosecutor.

Sanders argued eloquently for the coal operators' side in the industrial controversy that has been in progress since the United Mine Workers of America started to organize the miners in Mingo county. He asserted the prosecution had never questioned the right to organize. He emphasized that the houses from which union miners and their families were evicted by Felts and his men, the day of battle, were the property of the coal operators which the tenants had refused to vacate.

The question of the legality or illegality is not at issue in the case, Sanders declared. Judge Robert D. Bailey had instructed the jury to that effect.

DAVIS MAKES A PLEA FOR WORK

Governor Speaks for Army of Unemployed.

STATEMENT ISSUED IN CAPITAL CITY

Those with Power To Provide Employment Have Sacred Responsibility, Says Governor.

Columbus, March 19.—A plea that work be accorded Ohio's army of unemployed was voiced, today, by Governor Davis.

"We conceive it as one of the most sacred responsibilities devolving upon those in whose hands are placed the reins of government to promote the utmost prosperity and happiness of the people and to demonstrate always a solicitous regard for their general welfare," said the governor.

"Realizing that duty and recognizing that economic developments have led to a passing condition of wide unemployment, affecting, according to reports, hundreds of thousands of persons, and impressed with the necessity of averting further suffering on account of such unemployment, which affects not only the men out of work, but their mothers, wives and children, I earnestly call upon the public authorities and upon the heads of private enterprises, as a temporary measure of relief of unemployment, to proceed now, as far as possible, with all such necessary repairs and upkeep work as will not interfere with main operations from which an early return to conditions of normal prosperity is confidently expected.

"As a further aid in the present emergency, I ask that all owners of homes and other building begin, as quickly as possible, with spring cleaning, making of general repairs and such other work as will tend to give temporary employment and help to tide the unemployed and their families over the prevailing situation."

A FORMAL PROTEST BY "DRY" LEADERS

Ask Review of Ruling of Attorney General Palmer.

Washington March 19.—Formal protest of "dry" leaders, asking reversal of the opinion former Attorney General Palmer gave "liberalizing" the Volstead law, was before Secretary of the Treasury Mellon, today. The protest of the "drys" was submitted by Dr. Wilbur Crafts Steele of the International Reform bureau. Dr. Clarence True Wilson and Rev. Deets Pickett. Secretary Mellon promised the protestants that their request would be "considered." He gave no assurance however, that he would ask the attorney general for a reconsideration of the question.

The secretary of treasury it was said, will not ask the attorney general to reconsider the ruling unless errors of law, which are palpably wrong, are discovered.

BLOOD TESTS TO SHOW RELATION

Use of Test Suggested in Case of Stillmans.

CLOUD THROWN ON PARENTAGE OF BABE

Dr. Albert Abrams Says Parentage Can Be Established by a Simple Test.

San Francisco, March 19.—"A simple set of blood tests will settle absolutely the parentage of baby Guy Stillman."

This was the confident assertion, today, of Dr. Albert Abrams, whose discoveries and theories on electronic medicine have startled the scientific world and whose determination of parentage by blood test has been accepted as final by the superior court of this city.

"Either of two tests would serve to settle the question at issue in the Stillman case concerning the parentage of Baby Guy," said Dr. Abrams. "A test of the blood of James A. Stillman and that of the boy would establish whether they are father and son. Similarly, a test of the blood of Fred Beauvais, the Indian guide and that of the child would establish whether there is any basis to the apparent charge made by Stillman. This latter test would be as positive as the former, although of a negative nature if the charges of Stillman are unfounded."

Busily engaged in his laboratory, to which medical men come from all over the world to study his methods, Dr. Abrams declared that there had been no overtures to him from any persons connected with either side of the Stillman controversy. "Whether or not I would make such a test, if asked to," he added, "would depend upon two factors. I am very busy. I would not let the matter interfere with my other work. And I am also slightly temperamental in such matters. That would be the other factor."

An Easy Test.

Dr. Abrams explained that it would be unnecessary for either party to the test to come to San Francisco, he said.

"Only a few drops of blood of the child and a few drops of blood from either the father or the guide forwarded to me under proper conditions would be required. The blood may be placed upon blotting or filtered paper. Certain conditions would have to be observed, however, in securing the blood test and in forwarding that to assure its arrival here in proper condition."

The test as advanced by Dr. Abrams, is based on blood vibrations, that of parent and child vibrating in unison. As a result of his research into this hitherto unknown branch of medical science, Dr. Abrams is able according to Sir James Barr M. D., late president of the British Medical association, who has studied discoveries closely, to establish not only sex, race and parentage, but also diagnose various diseases—the latter being of major importance.

In Background.

New York, March 19.—The battle of lawyers in America's most sensational divorce case the Stillman suit, continued today while the principals remained silent and obscured themselves as much as possible in the background.

It was reported, but without confirmation, that a supreme court justice of the Ninth district had signed a stay, of proceedings in connection with Mrs. James A. Stillman's motion for alimony of $120,000 annually and $25,000 counsel fees. This would mean that Mr. Stillman's attorneys had moved quickly to prevent his examination on Mrs. Stillman's charges of infidelity before the divorce case comes to trial.

The stay was reported to have been filed in Putnam county where Mr. Stillman brought suit against his wife naming the French-Canadian Indian Fred Beauvais, as correspondent and questioning the paternity of Mrs. Stillman's two year old son, Guy. The writ upon which the stay was based was said to have been returnable today. Mr. Stillman's lawyers have been making a hard fight against Mrs. Stillman's alimony demands, which were characterized as excessive. It was declared that Mr. Stillman was already paying his wife $5,000 a month. Attorneys for Mrs. Stillman said this amount was insufficient for her needs and was incommensurate with the vast income of the multi-millionaire banker.

CLOTURE RULE TO BE INVOKED

To Speed Tariff Legislation in Senate.

SENATE LEADERS GET TOGETHER TODAY

Treasury Secretary Mellon is Shaping a Tax Program To Submit Promptly.

Washington, March 19.—Cloture will be invoked by the senate to insure passage of tariff legislation and clear the way for tax revision in the next congress. This plan, virtually agreed upon by leaders was laid before Secretary of the Treasury Mellon, today and the latter at once began shaping a tax program to submit to leaders at the capitol.

Secretary Mellon was informed, in a lengthy conference with Senator McCumber, vice chairman of the senate finance committee, that, through the adoption of cloture in the senate, nothing will prevent the passage of both new revenue and tariff legislation at the coming session.

"There is urgent need for an emergency tariff measure to protect our farmers," said Senator McCumber. "The wool and cattle industries particularly need protection against foreign dumping. This protection must be given the farmers. The action that seems so imperative to us can only be secured through the adoption of the cloture rule. I have no doubt now that it will be put through."

COAL PROFITS SHOWN BY REVENUE RETURNS

All Records Are Broken in the Columbus District.

Columbus, March 19.—Income and excess profits tax returns in the Columbus district are the largest in the history of the office of the collector of internal revenue. It is estimated that the amount of taxes will exceed the total for the first quarter of last year by more than $500,000. Enormous profits made in the coal fields in the southern part of the district are given as the reason for this surprising increase. The Columbus district probably will be one of the few districts in the country to show an increase. Reports from Washington indicate that the decrease in the nation as a whole this year over last will be $1,500,000,000.

WOMEN HAVE EQUAL RIGHTS

In Twenty-Two Countries of the World.

ONLY TWO OUNTRIES SHOW DISCRIMINATION

Great Britain and Hungary Have Different Qualifications for Voters.

London, March 19—There are twenty-two countries in the world in which women have equal suffrage and eligibility with men and only two in which the franchise is given to the "weaker" sex on different terms from the males These two countries are the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland and Hungary

A very careful and complete report has been made on this matter by the International Women's Suffrage alliance On reading the records of the various countries it is noted that with the exception of America, the English-speaking countries have seemingly given the franchise in a grudging spirit and with as many restrictions as possible

In Great Britain the women got the vote in 1918, after they had shown in the war that their help was indispensable But a woman can not vote until she is thirty years old There is one woman member of parliament—Lady Astor—and many city and municipal councillors In addition, there are a large number of justices of the peace

Suffrage in Australia.

The women of Australia received commonwealth suffrage and eligibility with men on equal terms in 1902, but this did not give them suffrage of eligibility for the different state parliaments and municipal councils The position of the various states is about as follows:

New South Wales gave them municipal suffrage without eligibility to office in 1867 franchise for the legislative assembly in 1902, and eligibility for parliament and municipal councils in 1919

South Australia gave municipal suffrage in 1880, franchise for legislative assembly and council in 1894 eligibility for the legislature in 1894 and eligility for municipal councils in 1915

Western Australia gave the municipal franchise—without a seat—in 1871, franchise of the legislative council and assembly in 1899, and eligibility for all in 1920.

Queensland is still a little behindhand, for, whil women have had municipal franchise since 1886 and legislative franchise since 1905, they are still without the right to a seat in the various sessions.

Victoria having given the vote to women for municipal councils in 1869, followed with a vote for the legislative council and assembly in 1908, but did not give the women a right to representation by one of their own sex in parliament or council until 1919

Tasmania has had the franchise for municipal councils since 1884 and the same for assembly and council since 1903, but she still refuses women the right to sit in her meetings.

No women in Australia have so far been returned as members either to the stat legislatures and councils for which they are eligible or to the federal parliament, but it is believed that next election they will show a change in this attitude.

Situation in Canada.

In Canada women have votes on equal terms with the men, but the federal amendment is not yet ratified They have not voted yet in federal elections, but only in state elections, where three women members of the state parliaments have been elected

Three women stood as candidates for the legislative assembly of New Zealand soon after the passing of a bill giving them eligibility in 1919, but none were elected Women in New Zealand have had municipal suffrage since 1886 .

Austria gives women the vote on the same terms as the men Two million voted in the first equal election in January 1919, and there are now in Austria eight women members of parliament, twenty-two city councillors, one deputy mayor and one hundred and twenty-six municipal councillors

In British East Africa women got their votes and eligibility on equal terms for white men and white women in 1919. The two sexes were enfranchised together at that time.

Czecho-Slovakia has thirteen women members in the lower house and three in the second house.

Vote in Denmark.

Denmark gave women the municipal vote in 1908, and the parliamentary vote on equal terms with the men in 1915. Women voted in 1919 and 1920 and they now have eleven women members They have passed a law for equal pay, equal admission to all posts and an equal status in marriage.

Estlonia women have votes on equal terms, and there are five women members of parliament.

Finland has had some kind of a women's franchise since 1906, but they only granted a full franchise and eligibility in 1907, when they returned nineteen women members to parliament There are now eighteen women in the parliament

Women got votes on equal terms in Germany in 1918 eight weeks before the elections Twenty million women were enfranchised and seventy to ninety per cent voted In the last national assembly ther had thirty-nine members of parliament, 155 in state parliaments, and 4 000 city and municipal councillors In the recent elections thirty women were returned to the reichstag

Qualifications in Hungary.

Hungary is a little out of the running Women were granted votes in November, 1918, but while men have the vote at twenty-one years of age a woman must wait until she is twenty-four before she has the same privilege She must also be able to read and write, while these qualifications are not a necessity where the men are concerned Only one woman has so far been elected and she got her seat at a bye-election

Women have votes in Iceland on equal terms with men and this is part of the new constitution They have had city councilors for a long time, but have no woman member of parliament

Men and women both got votes on equal terms in Lettonia in 1918 Five women have been elected to parliament and many to city councils

Lithuania gave votes to both sexes in 1920 and on equal terms Five women have been elected to parliament

In Luxembourg men vote with women at the age of twenty years Women have voted twice so far—first in the referendum and then in the elections One woman is in parliament

The Netherlands gave votes to women on the same terms as the men—twenty-five years They were eligible for office for a few years prior to receiving the franchise and there are two women in parliament and eighty-two women on city councils, together with several aldermen—all elected by men

Full Rights in Norway

Norway has had full rights since 1913, up to which date women had suffrage and restricted eligibility since 1901 The voting age for men and women is twenty-five years and the age of eligibility for both sexes is thirty years No women members of parliament have been elected but several alternates have been returned

For the Jewish National Assembly of Palestine women were granted equal suffrage and eligibility in 1918 Several women have been elected to the national assembly in Jaffa and a woman has been appointed to the board of education in Jerusalem

Poland has eight women M P s and the women vote there on equal terms with the men

Rhodesia women got votes on equal terms in 1919 and one woman M P has been elected

Sweden gave women votes on equal terms, but it will not be ratified till after the fall elections It will be through by February 1922, and they will vote in the following autumn At present there are about 400 city and municipal councilors who are women

Russian women were given votes on equal terms during the first revolution and several women served in parliament and in the cabinet Nothing is known of the exact state of affairs just now, as Russia does not belong to the international alliance

This law, enacted two years ago, forbids salesmen from including in the weight wood paper, burlap cord or any other material used to contain or wrap the articles sold

NEW YORK POLICE SEND JOHNSON GIRL TO CHICAGO

Where She Will Seek Employment, It's Announced.

Miss Lettie Johnson, whose home is at Green Camp and who was found virtually a prisoner when detectives raided a flat, arresting two alleged members of a gang of notorious bank robbers in New York City, Wednesday, was sent back by the police last night to her sister at the Fort Dearborn hotel in Chicago, it was learned today, says a New York wire to the Star. She will seek work there, according to the police. The girl's parents are expecting her to come home before going to Chicago.

Will Clean Up City.

Port Clinton, March 19.—A clean up campaign is to be staged by the Port Clinton boy scouts this spring when they will contract to clean up the yards and alleys of the city and thus raise money for their summer camp and equipment. The boys will go to camp the second week in June and will spend a couple of weeks at the Boat Harbor, on the John Lay beach, where they will have boating, bathing and fishing, at all hours.

When boiling white fish add a little vinegar to the water to keep it white and firm.

AMERICANISM RALLYING CRY

For Thousands in Legion Demonstration in New York

A PROTEST AGAINST "RHINE HORROR" MEETING

Senator Frank B. Willis Delivers a Stirring Address on Preservation of Liberty.

New York March 19 One of the greatest turnouts New York has ever seen was at Madison Square garden last night for the all-American meeting arranged by the American legion and twenty or more patriotic organizations

Fourteen thousand persons jammed the garden to its capacity, and the tremendous overflow was cared for by numerous open air meetings

The meeting was arranged as a protest against the recent horror one the Rhine meeting held in the same hall It was aimed legion officials said to express disapproval of all hyphenated propaganda

Converging on the historic amphitheater from every section of the city and its vicinity members of the American legion, their friends and patriotic Americans in general assembled in one of the most important patriotic rallies staged in this city

A small army of police—500 in number—were on duty in and near the garden to assist in handling the thousands who came to see the meeting and only those holding tickets were allowed to pass these lines.

American Flag Only Emblem.

The American flag was the only national emblem displayed at the gathering which was held to protest against alien propaganda or at the overflow meetings in Madison square and the streets and avenues near the garden

Prominent among those who participated in the demonstration were the mothers of the boys who gave their lives in the war and their comrades at present in hospitals in and around New York

The mothers and disabled soldiers occupied 500 seats

Among the speakers at the meeting were General Pershing, Senator Frank B. Willis of Ohio Martin W Littleton, Colonel William J Donovan and Hugh Frayne

Interest in the demonstration was nation-wide, it being evidenced by the attendance of delegations from states as far distant as Texas who came to register their protest against any meetings not in accord with the principle of America first last and always Willis Scores Indifference.

"Constitutional liberty is threatened not only by insidious attacks from without but by stupifying lethargy from within," said Senator Willis in his speech.

"Reverence for the law must be taught better — practiced better," said Senator Willis "If one citizen has a right to break one law because he does not like it, then every other citizen has the some right to break every law

"If every citizen may do as he pleases about obedience to the law there is an end to orderly government and we descend from the pinnacle of free institution —liberty regulated by law—to the weltering chaos of the mob

"The citizen who winks at the violation of law is consenting to the violation of the chastity of his own household and striking a deadlier blow at the perpetuity of free institutions than was ever dealt by the murderous hand of treason

"The Red radical breathing out threatenings and brandishing the torch is no more dangerous than the colorless, spineless citizen who weakly consents to the violation of law and thus gives aid and comfort to those who would trample the constitution under foot and substitute personal whim for the majesty of law

"These soldiers have saved from government from destruction—they now insist that what they saved shall not be put in jeopardy either by Red radicals, too un-American to appreciate free institutions or by weak white livered cowards too complaisant to stand up and fight for them

"Respect for law, confidence in the stalwart virtues of Americanism and faith in God can not be promoted by lip service alone As these soldier boys laid their all on their country's altar, let us here and now with them consecrate ourselves afresh to the high purpose of maintaining at any personal sacrifice the unsullied honor of the nation and the unfailing principles of Americanism."

DR. E. H. RAFFENSPERGER IS VICTIM OF SHARPER

Out $10 in Dental Work and $25 in Cash.

A recent experience which cost him $25 has caused Dr. E. H. Raffensperger to enter the ranks of those who will not cash checks for persons without first having positive knowledge of whether there are sufficient funds on deposit to take care of the paper.

A short time ago a man presented himself at the doctor's office for dental work. Some of the work was completed and when the bill amounted to $10 the man presented a check for $35 in payment. Dr. Raffensperger did not have sufficient change in the office at the time and the stranger said he would go to a store and get the check cashed.

The man presented himself at the Kleinmaier clothing store, where money on the check was refused without an endorsement by Dr. Raffensperger. The stranger went back, got the dentist's endorsement, cashed the check at the clothing store and then paid the dentist the $10.

As he paid the money, the man asked the dentist if he thought he looked like a crook and on being assured that his contenance did not bear any marks of a crook, the stranger seemed relieved and said that he had been told by some friends that he had the appearance of a crook and it made him feel very badly.

Within a few days the check, on a Cleveland bank, came back to the clothing store marked no funds and the dentist reimbursed the clothiers for the amount of the check and is now holding the paper. In addition to the $25, he is also out his time and material for the dental services to the stranger who has not since put in an appearance.

The check made out to William Cooper by one Edward Earle. The stranger endorsed it with the name of William Cooper.

After his experience Dr. Raffensperger's attention was called to a picture, hanging on his office wall, of an alleged dental office thief. The picture was sent out by a dental organization as that of a man who has committed a number of dental office robberies. Dr. Raffensperger believes the stranger who passed the worthless check is the same person who is accused of the robberies.

BY ONE POINT MARION WINS SCHOOL DEBATE

With Bucyrus and Delaware High Schools Last Night.

DEBATE DECIDES FOR A PROTECTIVE TARIFF

Marion Gets Five Points, Bucyrus Four and Delaware Three. Debate Here.

Harding High school won the Marion-Delaware-Bucyrus triangular debate Friday night by securing a unanimous decision in the contest here with Delaware and one vote in the contest at Bucyrus, in which Bucyrus received the decision. In the third contest, at Delaware, Bucyrus lost by a three-to nothing vote of the judges.

According to the rules of the contest, one point is given for each decision and one point for each vote of the judges. This gives Marion the debate with a total of five points. Delaware is next with four points and Bucyrus received only three points.

For Protective Tariff.

In the contest at the departmental school auditorium here last night, Marion's affirmative team debated with the Delaware negative team. At Bucyrus, Marion's negative team debated with the Bucyrus affirmative team and at Delaware Bucyrus supported the negative against Delaware's affirmative trio. The question was "Resolved, That the United States Should Adopt a Protective Tariff."

A Brilliant Victory.

Harding High's affirmative team won a brilliant victory at the Departmental school auditorium in the contest with Delware last night and the announcement of the decision of the judges was greeted with roars of applause by the large crowd. The decision of each judge was announced separately by John H. Clark the chairman, and the roar which went up as the first vote for Marion was read, indicated that the spectators had not the slightest doubt as to the result. This applause was increased as the second vote was announced, and when the third ballot for Harding high was announced the cheering reached its climax.

Both teams presented a mass of facts in support of their arguments and showed the result of excellent coaching and tireless effort in preparation for the contest. This was evidenced especially in the rebutting the various points brought out in the main arguments of the various speakers. Statistics from numerous authorities were quoted freely by both sides.

School Yells.

School yells and selections by the Harding High school orchestra opened the program and John H. Clark announced the question and stated that each speaker would be given ten minutes for presenting the main arguments and five minutes in rebuttal.

Miss Doris Bondley the first speaker for the affirmative, declared that the question of a protective tariff is one of vital importance to the United States and one on which the very life of the nation may depend. "We maintain that tariff for protection is best," Miss Bondley asserted in stating there are three varieties of tariff. "It equalizes the facilities of production and the question restated is 'Shall the United States put a tariff on imports sufficient to protect our own products?'"

Miss Bondley contended that the United States should adopt a protective tariff in order to build up a variety of industries to prevent unemployment, for national defense, because it is the birthright of the farmer's child and is a boon to women and children who are forced to rely on themselves for a livelihood. "Free trade will ruin a nation," she declared," and if we wish for our country to maintain the high place it now holds, we must have a protective tariff."

First Negative Speaker.

Miss Lillian Murphy, the first negative speaker asserted that the country does not need a change to a protective tariff. She declared her side admits that the present industrial system is not the most desirable, but contended that it is not due to the tariff system. She laid the present unemployment to the problems of after-the-war reconstruction and to a buying strike on the part of the consumer. She asked the affirmative to explain the depression of 1907 under the protective system and asserted that as soon as the normal equilibrium of the world is restored unemployment will disappear.

"There is no need for a protective tariff because there is no demand for it on the part of the people," Miss Murphy declared. "We do not need it because of the modern efficiency of our country. We have much better machinery than any other country and an American can produce two and one-eight times as much goods as an Englishman and so on through the list of other countries."

Robert Fitts appeared as the second speaker for the affirmative and asserted that protection is necessary for a safe and sound working policy.

Safe and Sound.

"A safe and sound working policy must be bound by long-time contracts," the speaker stated, "and in order to secure these contracts we must have protection. It is also necessary to insure a prosperous future. Free trade tends to equalize the conditions of the people engaged in any trade or industry." He asked what chance has America to compete with the cheap labor of Europe if a protective barrier is not raised and declared that cheap labor will lower living conditions and free trade would bring standards of living in America down to a level with those of poorly paid Europe. He also declared that a protective system will raise wages and that under free trade American markets would be opened to foreigners and closed to home producers.

Robert Nichols.

Robert Nichols was the second negative speaker and he declared a protective tariff illogical, charging that it is class legislation, is hostile to commerce and dangerous to the nation. In support of his contention that it is class legislation he declared that a protectvie tariff is a tax on the consumer and affects many who do not produce the articles which are protected. He stated a high protective tariff killed the American merchant marine in the days of the clipper ships and asserted that a tariff wall which keeps foreign goods out will also work to keep American goods from being sold in foreign markets. Mr. Nichols stated protection decreases the national wealth injures the natural capacity of industry and fosters the formation of trusts and monopolies. He asserted that the restriction of immigration will serve to solve the unemployment problems as will also the construction of highways and the building of homes. He stated another method is to revise the banking laws so that the farmer can borrow money on his crops.

Frank Weeks.

Frank Weeks presented the final direct argument for the affirmative and brought out that a protective system safeguards labor protects the farmer and builds up infant industries. He charged that free trade reduces the skilled laborer to a beast of burden and quoted statistics showing the growth of the pearl button industry under a protective tariff to substantiate his claim that the system builds up infant industries.

An organization of farmers in thirty eight states have asked for protection from the imports of foreign wheat, Mr. Weeks stated in answer to the contention of the negative that there is no demand on the part of the people for a protective tariff. He declared thousands of dollars are being taken from the pockets of the farmers because of the lack of a protective tariff. The affirmative, he stated, does not believe in class legislation and, refuting the argument of the negative declared protection of farming affects every individual in the country. He stated that free trade would mean the threatening of industries started during the war, such as the chemical, nitrate and dye plants which are practically in the initial stages of development. He summarized all of the points brought out by the affirmative team.

Miss Elizabeth Hoffman.

Miss Elizabeth Hoffman, of Delaware, in summing up for the negative declared protection is impracticable at present because industries are not in need of it. "We give protection credit for what it has done to help infant industries reach the strong positions they hold today," she said, "but conditions now are different and these industries are strong enough to stand without a protective tariff." She contended protection leads to isolation and misunderstanding and charged that the public does not receive the intended benefits of a protective system. As a substitute for protection she offered for her team a policy of reciprocity.

In rebuttal the speakers, in the order of their appearance, were Miss Lillian Murphy, negative; Miss Doris Bondley, affirmative; Robert Nichols, negative; Robert Fitts, affirmative; Miss Elizabeth Hoffman, negative and Frank Weeks, affirmative. Five minutes were given for the preparation of arguments in rebuttal. The high school girls' glee club sang while the judges were engaged in preparing their decision.

Judges were I. F. Matteson, Findlay, superintendent of schools, R. J. Kiefer, Bellefontaine, superintendent of schools, and W. D. Sterrett, Mansfield, instructor in chemistry in the Mansfield High school.

Members of the Harding High negative team, who were accompanied to Bucyrus by Sylvester Larkin, debating coach are Miss Mary Pencock, Samuel Fye and Edwin Knachel and Kenneth Smith, alternate.

Alternates in the local debate were Edwin Spohn, Delaware, and Gladden Hull, Marion.

The Light of The Home

There is no question more important to the home of refinement than that of proper lighting. Time was, back in the coal oil lamp days, when little improvement could be made with lights, they were either used or they were not.

Today, however, things are changed. Just as lightning is studied in the stage setting, so should it be studied in the home—light is the supreme element in making any room attractive and harmonious or blindingly incongruous. The lamp's the thing.

We would like to show you the kind of lamps that add to the attractiveness of any room. The assortment includes table and floor lamps as well as torches and candlesticks. They are designed in all color combinations to fit harmoniously into any room.

You will find, among our lamps, the one that was made for your home. We just received a large shipment of floor lamps—all new patterns.

Factory Service!

Read what Phil Ruehrmund & Son, prominent farmers southeast of Marion has to say about Huber Service.

Marion, O., Mar. 14th, 1921.

Gentlemen:

We have used our Light Four Tractor three seasons and have always found it up to our expectations of a farm tractor. We find that it is cheaper to run than some other makes, as we had another tractor before we purchased the Huber.

If we were needing another tractor at this time, we would buy another Huber; not only because the one we now have has been so satisfactory, but on account of being so near the factory. We can get repairs at any time of the day, or for that matter at night, and be ready to go again before you can telephone to another factory or branch house. Further, if it should be necessary to have an expert look after the machine, it is possible to get him at once from the factory without any delay.

The dealings we have had with the Officers and the Management of the Company have been very satisfactory and courteous. We have always found them ready to do what they said they would do.

Yours very truly,
Signed, PHIL RUEHRMUND & SON.

Better Buy a Huber Made in Marion, where you can get factory service. It costs nothing to get our proposition and may save you a lot of worry and loss of time. Come in and talk it over.

A DERAILMENT DELAYS HOCKING VALLEY TRAIN

Headquarters of Pennsylvania Abolished at Mansfield.

PART OF THE PROGRAM FOR BIG RETRENCHMENT

Tie and Rail Brevities Picked Up in the Local Yards and Elsewhere.

Hocking Valley passenger train, No. 35, was over an hour late Friday afternoon, as a result of the derailment of four cars of northbound freight, No. 97, at Ackerman, north of Columbus, early in the afternoon. Both tracks were blocked and some rails torn up.

A. E. Wallace, manager of the Chicago region of the Erie, stopped in the city a short time this morning enroute to Chicago on train No. 3.

F. E. House, superintendent of the Cincinnati division of the Erie, went to Huntington, today, on company business.

A. W. Cook, trainmaster of the Cincinnati division of the Erie, is looking after business of his department at Dayton, today.

Under the general retrenchment policy adopted by the Pennsylvania railroad the Mansfield division of the system has been abolished. The headquarters in Mansfield have been in operation just one year. This is quite a blow to Mansfield as almost one hundred families were connected with the division offices there, and a number of them had purchased homes. Now they will be compelled to locate elsewhere.

T. A. Roberts, who has been superintendent of the Mansfield division, will be superintendent of the new Western division, which will extend from Clark Junction, just east of Chicago, to Mansfield, with headquarters at Fort Wayne. H. G. Marvel will be assistant trainmaster with headquarters at Mansfield. The assistant superintendent will also be located at Mansfield.

H. F. Miller, who has been assistant trainmaster to the Mansfield division returns to Crestline and takes his old position of general yard master. O. L. Smith becomes assistant and other men on the yardmaster's staff take one step down.

It is reported that all the accounting now done at Mansfield, entailing a large force, will be eliminated.

RAIL CHIEFS BEFORE BOARD

Labor Union Leaders Delve into Association Record.

DEVELOPMENTS AT CHICAGO HEARING

Union Leaders Charge Effort To Establish Open Shop by a Few Men.

Chicago, March 18.—Union labor leaders delved into the records of the Association of Railway Executives before the United States railroad labor board in an endeavor to show that the railroads' fight against national agreements was not unanimous, but was dominated by a few officials.

An underlying purpose to establish the open shop and crush labor organizations was declared to be behind the fight of the association against national boards of adjustment.

The controversy over these boards in the association's labor committee was brought out by cross-examination of T. DeWitt Cuyler, chairman of the association, and its assistant, Robert S. Binkert, and the introduction of voluminous correspondence and reports of the committee into the labor board record.

The proceedings marked the beginning of labor's main fight for continuance of the national rules and working agreements now in effect, the justness and reasonableness of which the board is now trying to decide in hearings which began Jan. 10.

A basic program of 11 points on which labor would be willing to negotiate national agreements was laid before the board by B. M. Jewell, president of the railway employes' department of the American Federation of Labor. Frank P. Walsh, counsel for the unions, immediately followed with an exhaustive cross-examination of Binkert and Cuyler.

The association's labor committee was the outgrowth of the transportation act, according to testimony of Binkert, and was designed to deal with labor disputes. Records brought by Binkert were read to show that a divided opinion concerning national boards of adjustment had existed in the committee.

The majority report of the labor committee stated that it feared failure to appoint boards as provided under the transportation act would result in overloading the labor board with disputes, and added that if the roads did not take advantage of the permissive features of the law by agreeing to adjustment boards, the efficiency of the labor board might be greatly impaired, resulting in decisions possibly averse to the roads.

The minority, headed by W. W. Atterbury, vice president of the Pennsylvania, however, presented three reports, at different times, which pointed out that agreement to national adjustment boards meant dealing with the representatives of organized labor, and declared the nonunion men would not have a chance before the board. Such a recognition of the unions, the report said, would lead to a closed shop and concentration of control by the unions. National boards, one of the reports said, meant national agreements and creation of uniform handling of all labor matters, contrary to the minority's contention that each road would be allowed to negotiate its own agreements.

The minority report, it was shown, was adopted by a member vote of 66 to 41.

A STATEMENT MADE BY ATTORNEY GENERAL

Unless Mellon Asks Review, Palmer Ruling Will Stand.

Washington, March 19.—Definite announcement that Former Attorney General Palmer's opinion permitting physicians to prescribe beer for medical purposes would stand unless Secretary Mellon should ask for a review was made by Attorney General Daugherty. The attorney general reiterated that except on request for a review by the head of a department, the department of justice could not hand down reviews of opinions.

In connection with the possible transfer of the prohibition enforcement bureau from the treasury to the department of justice as a part of a general reorganization of departments, the attorney general said he was not seeking any additional authority, but would accept such responsibility as congress might place upon him.

Creation of a single intelligence department to do the investigation work of the government was advocated by the attorney general. Such a force, he said, would give the government a very efficient set of men, which could be assigned to the various departments as needed.

"YOU TELL HIM BOTTLE, I'M DRY," SAYS OFFICER

When Searching Machine of Author of Crabbe Act.

Cleveland, March 19.—Representative C. C. Crabbe, speaker pro tem of the Ohio house of representatives and author of the drastic prohibition law which bears his name, was held up at a company with two others and the automobile in which he was riding searched by a Cleveland policeman, just after, seeking forbidden corn juice or other "spirituous, malt or vinous liquors."

The host of the trio of "red licker" and all similar beverages protested in vain, telling the officer that his guest was the author of the act the provisions of which he was trying to enforce.

"You tell him, bottle, I'm dry," was the terse, if inelegant reply, as he dug deep under laprobes searching for a bottle.

Nothing incriminating was found.

Former French Premier Will Present France in Her True Light at Washington.

Harve, France, March 19.—"I hope that my visit to the United States will remove any misunderstandings between America and France that may have been created by propagandists who have been charging France with militarism."

This declaration was made here, today, by former Premier Rene Viviani, who will sail for New York tonight.

"The first thing I shall do when I reach the United States is to visit the White House in Washington, to pay my respects to President Harding," continued the former premier. "After that, I shall converse with members of the United States government. I may point out that I am already acquainted with quite a number of American statesmen.

"While in the United States I shall spend the most of my time in Washington, although I am accepting numerous invitations to pay visits in New York and other places outside of the national capital."

M. Viviani gave no indication that he would discuss either the league of nations or the French war debt, in his interview with the International News service.

A reception was tendered to the ex-premier at the city hall, this afternoon. He will sail on the liner, Lorraine.

Chicago, March 19.—Charges that the Chicago Mercantile exchange, successor to the Chicago Butter & Egg board, cornered the market in cold-storage eggs in January of this year and forced the price up to a point eleven cents higher than the price for fresh eggs at the time, are made in a suit filed in the federal court here today.

The suit was filed on behalf of the Louis Mears company, a Boston commission house, and asks $50,000 damages from the exchange and twenty-seven of its members. The Mears company alleges it lost $50,000 in transactions in cold-storage eggs, which it had sold "short" because of the alleged cornering of the market.

THOUSANDS OF UNEMPLOYED

Women and Girls Struggle for Existence.

ENGLISH SITUATION REPORTED DESPERATE

Over 500,000 Are Without Work and Number Increases 10,000 a Week.

London, March 19.—Unemployment among women and girls in England is reaching a point of desperation, according to Miss Margaret Bondfield, secretary of the Women's Trade Union league.

She will pause in her struggle to find a way out to give facts and figures with the deadly accuracy and precision of an adding machine, enlightening them with specific instances of hopeless individual struggles for existence.

In England there are registered a total of 600,000 women and girls who are totally unemployed or who work only one or two days a week. The figure for totally unemployed, a quarter of a million, has been increasing by about 10,000 each week.

"Unemployment is still on the increase," Miss Bondfield said, "and we have every reason to expect that it will become worse.

Many Pitiful Cases.

"One of the most pitiful cases reported is that of an orphan girl who serves two and a half years in munition work during the war. Last week she registered at a labor exchange. There alone 4,000 women and girls were registered, and there were twenty-five jobs available. In utter despair she attempted to commit suicide. She is now being befriended by a woman almost as poor as herself.

"All over the country the period during which unemployment benefits may be drawn is ending. Hundreds of thousands are losing their last chance of obtaining maintenance. We are putting pressure on the government to act at once and extend the period of maintenance.

"All this unemployment is having a disastrous effect upon the standard of life. Simultaneously a definite attempt is being made to reduce women's wages. It is driving us to despair.

"All the work we have done is now being threatened, and whole groups of women are being driven back to such wages as they received before the trade board's act of 1909. It is an object lesson to women on the importance of organizing themselves in industry, but meantime the poorly paid groups are bearing the brunt of the attack.

"We are asking, to meet the immediate case, the extension of unemployment benefit and immediate placing of contracts which would ordinarily be given out later in the year. A great deal of distress would be relieved if the government and local government boards would at once place contracts for clothing foodstuffs and so on.

War Workers Idle.

"We are also campaigning to have women share with men in the various training schemes. There are large numbers of girls and women who did war work during the period when they would normally have been in training for domestic service. They have no training for domestic service and can not find employment.

"This class tried to remain in industrial work after the war in preference to entering domestic service. They are now only too willing to enter the trade which they formerly avoided, and are anxious for training."

Although there has been a crying demand for good domestic servants the labor exchange have 23,000 unemployed women listed for such work, an overwhelming majority of them totally untrained.

Seeks Reindictment of Players.

Chicago, March 19.—A second investigation into the 1919 world's series, which Chicago White Sox players were charged with throwing to Cincinnati, was started by State's Attorney Robert E. Crowe before the Cook county grand jury. Mr. Crowe told the jurors in outlining his plans that he would bring them new evidence which would justify reindictment of the men whose cases were dropped.

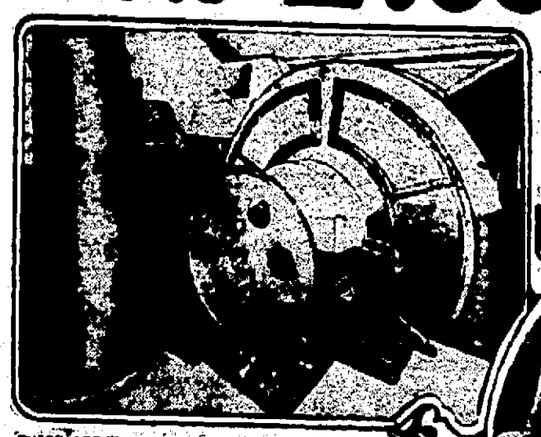
European Miners Against Lenine.

Berne, March 19.—The executive committee of the International Mine Workers' union, which claims a membership of 3,500,000, adopted a resolution declaring against Lenine and the Third Internationale of Moscow. The committee urged union members in all countries to oppose new wars and militarism to the utmost and seek to achieve general disarmament to bring about permanent peace.

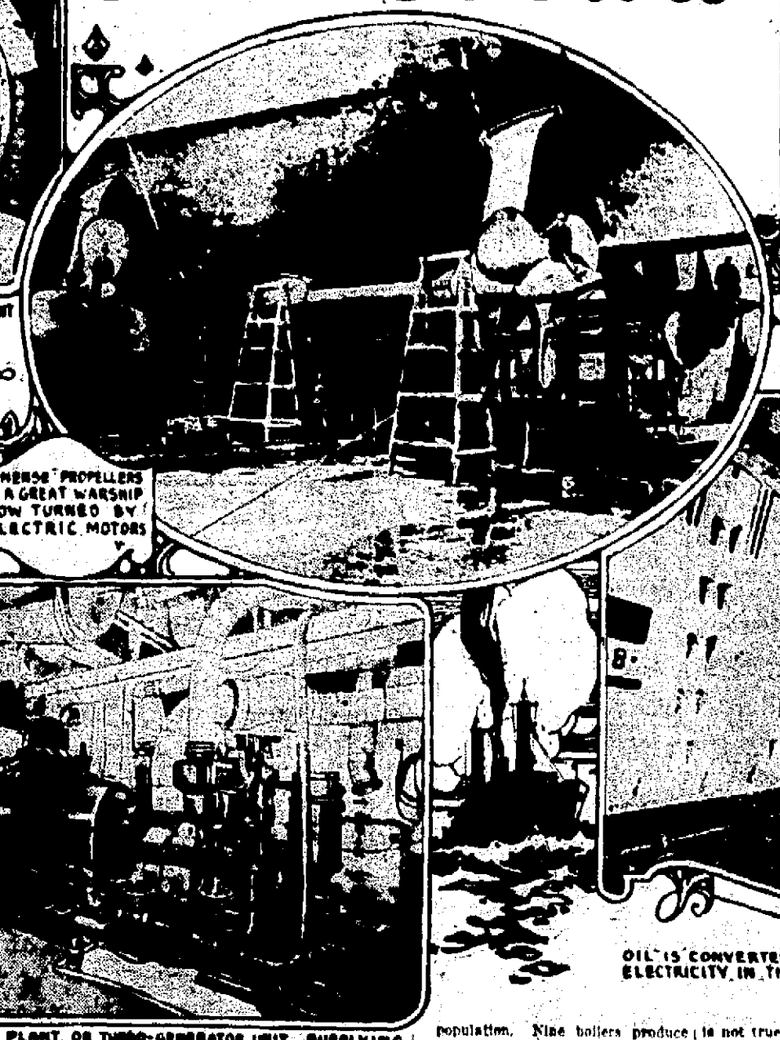
Appointment Urged.

Washington, March 19.—Appointment of William Burgess, of Trenton, New Jersey, as a member of the United States tariff commission, was urged upon President Harding, today, by A. A. McNichol, J. B. McDonald and W. L. Smith, members of the United Potters' association. The delegation was introduced to the president by Louis Brush, of Lincoln, Liverpool.

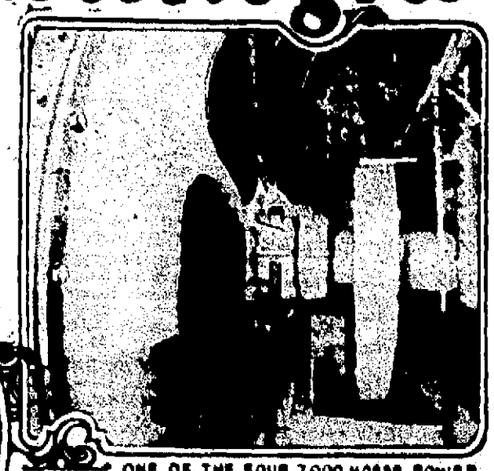
The Electric Dreadnaught California



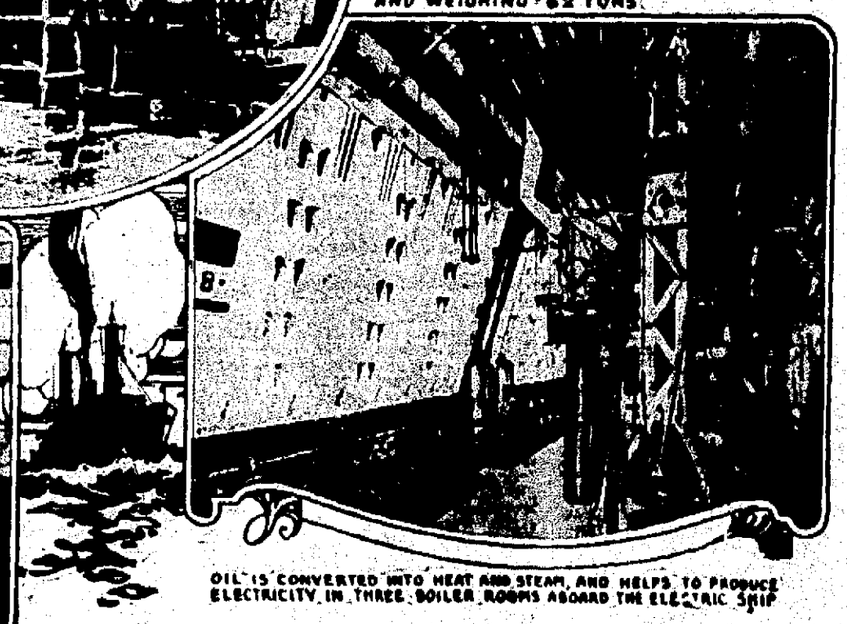
THERE ARE TWO TURBO GENERATORS THAT PRODUCE CURRENT FOR THE PROPELLER MOTORS ON THE CALIFORNIA



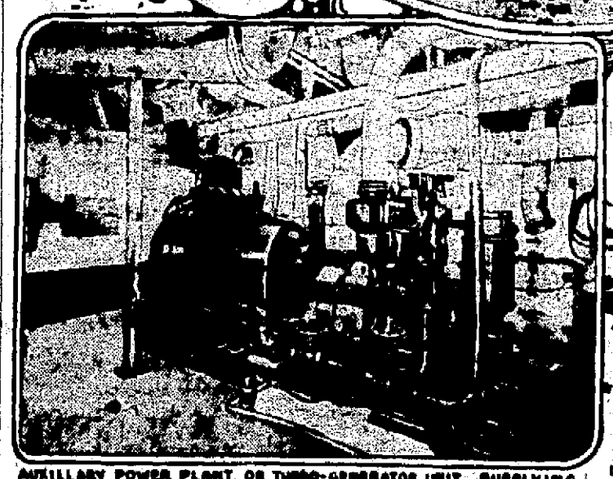
IMMENSE PROPELLERS OF A GREAT WARSHIP NOW TURNED BY ELECTRIC MOTORS



ONE OF THE FOUR 7,000 HORSE POWER PROPELLER MOTORS, SIX FEET IN DIAMETER, AND WEIGHING 62 TONS.



OIL IS CONVERTED INTO HEAT AND STEAM, AND HELPS TO PRODUCE ELECTRICITY IN THREE BOILER ROOMS ABOARD THE ELECTRIC SHIP



AUXILLARY POWER PLANT, OR TURBO-GENERATOR UNIT, SUPPLYING THE ELECTRIC BATTLESHIP WITH CURRENT FOR ALL PURPOSES EXCEPT ACTUAL PROPULSION

By J. E. JONES,
U. S. Press Association, Washington, D. C.

THE California, recently launched at Mare Island, is the third electrically driven superdreadnaught to be added to the United States Navy, the only navy in the world which has thus far equipped its fighting craft with this method of propulsion.

Several years ago W. L. R. Emmet, consulting engineer of the General Electric Company, interested marine engineers in the prophecy that electricity would provide the motive power for vessels of every description. The first experiments were made with the collier Jupiter with apparatus designed and manufactured in the shops of the big plant at Schenectady. Thus the ancient Dutch city on the banks of the Mohawk River became in a sense the birthplace of electric drive.

The advantages were seen to be so great that naval officers commended the installation for capital ships, and when the giant California was put into commission last month electricity operated her propelling machinery, her militant equipment, her lighting, heating and ventilating systems, down to the kitchen devices and soldering and glue-pots. The California, which is the "last word" in battleship design and fitting, has many electrical features. She is the first vessel of her kind to be turned out in a Pacific coast shipping yard. Her keel was laid three years ago, but during the war her builders turned their attention to the output of smaller craft. Upon the signing of the armistice an army of workmen took possession of the floating city and bent all their energies towards her completion. Christened by Mrs. Randolph T. Zane, daughter of Governor William D. Stephens of California and widow of a hero of the battle of Belleau Woods, she "slipped down the tide" cheered by many thousands. Her great turbo generators, capable of developing 28,000 horsepower, are among the principal units of the California's electrical drive. She has four motors, connected to four propeller shafts. Each motor is twelve feet in diameter, weighs sixty-two tons, and the combined capacity is sufficient to supply light and power to a city of 100,000 population. Nine boilers produce steam at a pressure of 250 pounds to the square inch. Part of the steam is diverted to six auxiliary turbo-generator sets in different parts of the ship, which produce electricity for all purposes aside from propulsion.

It is the belief of many persons that electricity is a source of power which merely needs harnessing to produce results, independent of coal and oil. This is not true, for an electric ship burns fuel in much the same way as the older types of engines. The California and New Mexico burn oil exclusively and accomplish their "coaling" through a six-inch hose. Their oil capacity is 1,900 tons, but the saving is great, for it has been demonstrated that it amounts to nearly 20 per cent.

The California is estimated to have 30 per cent better protection than any other American battleship. She carries twelve fourteen-inch guns, four submerged torpedo tubes, twenty-five two-inch rapid fire guns, four six-pounders, two one-pounders, four three-inch anti-aircraft guns, one three-inch landing gun and two thirty-caliber machine guns. Two firing cages located in the huge steel mast direct the work of the guns, which have a range of eighteen miles, and one broadside, from which could hurl six massive touring cars from Sandy Hook into New York City.

The California will have a crew of 1,032 men and 58 officers. She has a length of 624 feet, a breadth of 88 feet and weighs (displaces) 32,000 tons. She has an estimated speed of 21 knots per hour.

The West Virginia, Maryland and other superdreadnaughts being planned and under construction are to be similar in practically many details.

One of the single apprehensions expressed in the beginning by naval officers was that the shock of gunfire might prove disastrous to the electrical installation, especially the insulators, cable supports and instruments. A firing test was made by discharging all of the fourteen-inch guns broadside at the same instant. Careful inspection revealed the fact that not a single failure or derangement occurred in connection with the entire system.

The weight of the electrical propelling machinery is less than six hundred tons, and the space occupied is comparatively little in the center of the ship, where it is immune from attack and from danger by collision or grounding.

Now that the electric drive has proven to be clean, economical, safe and efficient, it will be tested on cargo carriers and passenger vessels, and there is no doubt but that it will revolutionize the field of marine activity. The illustrations shown are from the equipment of the U. S. S. New Mexico, sister ship of the California, but are of the same type used on the California.

Two nineteen-knot passenger vessels propelled by electrical machinery are to ply between San Francisco and Los Angeles in the spring. The first electrically propelled trawler in the world is being tested in New England waters. She is known as The Mariner and is staunch enough to weather the severest fishing trips in the North Atlantic.

Two 1,000-ton coast guard cutters are in building and are to be outfitted with electrical propulsion. They are the largest ever ordered for the service. One may be placed on the Great Lakes for duty, and the other is designed to be a derelict destroyer.

The recent coal strike gave added impetus to the movement to make fuel oil the ship propelling power of the future. The arguments in favor are the reduction in the cost of operation, the size of the crews, the elimination of coal stokers and the release of much cargo space that is now given over to coal. Dirt and other discomforts attending the loading and use of coal are done away with, and uniform steam pressure is more easily maintained, insuring a steady rate of speed and reducing the degree of deterioration of furnaces and boilers resulting from uneven temperatures.

The pioneers of the electric drive are so convinced of its superiority that they believe vessels without it will prove to be objects of as much curiosity in time to come as the quaint sailing craft of bygone days is to the present generation.

Mr. and Mrs. Wilson Wright, Principals—Notes.

Mt. Gilead, O., March 19.—[Special.]—Mr. and Mrs. Wilson Wright celebrated their sixtieth wedding anniversary Monday. They have made their home in Mt. Gilead. Their children, Mrs. Jessie Cruikshank, of Fostoria, and William Wright, of Mt. Gilead, were with them on their anniversary. The neighbors came in and brought supper. Mrs. Ann Govsley was at the celebration and is the only one living who was at the wedding.

Mrs. Orrin Buckmaster and sister, Mrs. Frank Dalrymple, very pleasantly entertained a large company of ladies Thursday evening at a St. Patrick's party, at the Buckmaster home.

Mrs. Harley Miracle and Mrs. Don Howard pleasantly entertained the Thursday club at the Toquet clubrooms this week.

Mr. and Mrs. W. T. Wieland entertained thirty relatives Tuesday evening, honoring their guests, Mr. and Mrs. T. W. Wieland, of Brainerd, Minnesota.

The body of Wilson West, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lewis West, of Marion, was brought to Mt. Gilead from Marion and burial made in River Cliff cemetery.

The American Legion boys gave a play, "For the Hand of the Law."

Resignation Not Received.

Washington, March 19.—The resignation of William B. Wilson, former secretary of labor, as a member of the joint commission on Canadian boundaries, has not been received by the president, the White House announced, today. Secretary to the President Christian denied any knowledge of reports that the president had asked Wilson to resign.

Burroughs Recovers.

Pasadena, Cal., March 19.—John Burroughs, naturalist, was back again in his winter home, a cabin in Pasadena Glen, completely recovered, it was said, from the minor ailment which caused him to go to a hospital several weeks ago. He said he would depart for the east March 20, in order to reach his home at Riverv, N. Y., in time to celebrate there April 3 the eighty-fourth anniversary of his birth.

Thousand Immigrants Coming.

London, March 19.—One thousand persons emigrating from Europe to the United States will sail on board the steamer Adriatic on March 22, it is announced here. These immigrants have been given a preliminary medical inspection.

SHORTAGE OF STEEL IS SEEN

Steel Supply of World Is Found Extremely Scant.

ENGLISH MAGNATE TALKS OF SITUATION

United States, Great Britain and France Are Chief Producers of Steel.

London, March 19.—"In spite of the fact that there is at present a severe depression in the iron and steel industries of the United States and Great Britain there is a serious world shortage of iron and steel products," said Sir Robert Hadfield, the well-known steel magnate, in a recent speech.

"The depression in the United States," he continued, "has been accompanied, according to reports from New York, with the heaviest cancellation epidemic in the history of the industry."

"America's shortage of steel rails alone is estimated to be 12,000,000 tons, this being what is required to bring the railways into a normal condition. This represents about 133,000 miles of single track and if met at the rate of 2,500,000 tons a year for five years would prevent the United States from catering on a large scale for the world's markets."

Don't Fear Competition.

Sir Robert made some very trenchant remarks on the subject of foreign competition, particularly on the recent allegations that America and France were uniting to oust Great Britain out of the markets of the world.

"Great Britain," he said, "does not fear fair and honorable competition, and we do not ask for coddling of any kind which would take away that incentive to just and honest work. As regards the so-called arrangement between France and the United States it is all moonshine."

"Judge Gary, head of the United States Steel corporation, entirely disassociated himself and the immense association he represents from any such attempt, and in addition, said he considered that if people generally would try to produce more harmony between classes, conditions in the world would soon return to a more satisfactory basis."

Hope resembles the head of a pin and disappointment the other end.

HINTS FOR THE MOTORIST by ALBERT L. CLOUGH

Low Temperature Lubrication Requirements (Continued)

Oil Will Thin Grease To The Required Fluidity

SOLIDIFYING OF TRANSMISSION LUBRICANT is often first evidenced by difficulty in shifting gears on cold mornings, the grease becoming so stiff that considerable force is required to move the lever into its various positions. The best course is then to add sufficient engine oil to the housing, so that when it is mingled with the grease by the running of the gears, the mixture will be thin enough to flow slowly out of the draw-off opening, even when the car is only slightly warm. Adding the oil several times, in moderate amounts and observing the thinning effects, will prevent overdoing the process and probably some of the lubricant will finally have to be discarded, in order to prevent the level in the case from becoming too high. Even if no gear shifting trouble is experienced, the transmission drain-plug of a car should be removed, when cold weather comes on, and if its contents do not start to escape through the hole after a minute or so, oil should be supplied to thin it. It is even more important that the same test should be applied to the rear-axle housing for this, unlike the transmission-case, is never above outside air temperature. Care should be taken that the lubricant level is not raised too much, by the addition of oil, as then there may be an escape into the axle tubes and onto the brake drums. If there is any likelihood that the universal-joint lubricant is too stiff, a little steam cylinder oil can be squirted into their housings. Gear housing lubricants are on the market, which it is claimed are not affected by cold, but these are expensive and the average user employs ordinary greases which certainly thicken at low temperatures. Hence the above suggestions.

SPARK INTENSIFIER QUERY

M. E. writes: I have attached a spark intensifier to one of my sparkplugs which gets full of carbon quickly and notice that it makes the plug fire, when in that condition. Can I make this intensifier act on all plugs by connecting it in between the condenser and the distributor? Would this harm the apparatus?

Answer: If you should connect it as you suggest, it would open the circuit to the condenser and there would be little or no spark delivered and severe burning of the timer contacts. Moreover, the intensifier, connected thus, would cease to serve its purpose even as regards one plug. In order to function properly, there must be a separate intensifier in series with each plug, but a similar effect is produced by the use of a distributor in which the rotating high-tension part, instead of actually touching the segments to which the plug cables are connected, moves very close to them, thus leaving a small intensifying gap in each plug circuit.

BACKFIRING AND SPARK TIMING

J. M. D. writes: My engine has a tendency to backfire or to make a sharp "chuck-chucking" noise at the air intake, when I give it gas suddenly, especially on starting cold in the morning. Is there any special regulation of the spark lever required in order to overcome this?

Answer: This popping back into the carburetor is hardly to be avoided with the quality of gasoline now available coupled with low temperatures. If the carburetor is set for a rather lean running mixture, as it should be, it is almost inevitable until the engine becomes warm. The mixture under these conditions is weak and slow burning and the flame of one combustion "lunges on" in the cylinder until the inlet valve opens to admit the next charge, which may be fired as it is entering, setting the spark very early somewhat tends to speed up the combustion and to prevent the accidental ignition of succeeding entering charges and there is no danger in advancing the spark, under such conditions, very much further than would be safe, were the engine pulling hard on a rich mixture.

TWO-POINT IGNITION.

E. P. writes: As an experiment, I have been thinking of installing two-point ignition on my four-cylinder engine. Do you think that this would give me materially increased power or fuel mileage? Would it reduce or increase the carbon deposit? Would a single coil condenser and distributor have sufficient strength to deliver the two sparks per cylinder satisfactorily?

Answer: We think that you would gain but little, if any, appreciable power or economy by so doing, probably not enough to warrant the expense and trouble. In engines with very large bores and of T head construction (which permits the two plugs to be placed far apart in the combustion space) twin-spark ignition may give some increase in output and efficiency. It was used by the drivers of large engined racing cars, with some success, but with the small-bored L head engines of today, it seems to be of very little benefit. We doubt if you would find that it had any noticeable effect upon carbonization. By using in each cylinder one special unprotected plug you can make the discharge jump through both plugs in series, but we cannot recommend this arrangement. For best results with twin-spark ignition a special magneto is used.

Questions of general interest to the motorist will be answered in this column, space permitting. If an immediate answer is desired, inclose addressed, stamped envelope. Address Albert L. Clough, care of this paper.

CONTRACTORS SEEK OHIO HIGHWAY WORK

Numerous Bids Are Received on Road Contracts.

Columbus, March 19.—Contractors demonstrated here they were eager for Ohio road work. There were numerous bids on road contracts at the state highway department. On 15 contracts there were 122 bids. For one job in Darke county there were 14 bidders; for another in the same county, 16.

"It's worse than old times," said Highway Commissioner Herrick. "It shows contractors are hungry for work again. They're bidding in anticipation of lower prices of materials, ample labor, adequate shipping facilities. It's a good sign all around. The outlook is fine in all respects except freight rates. Rates are still very bad."

Another encouraging feature was the underbidding of engineers' estimates. Lowest bids, on the average, were 12 per cent below estimated costs. Costs had been estimated on present conditions. Bids were offered in anticipation of improving conditions. "It means we'll build more roads this year than ever before and for less money," said Herrick.

Herrick says he has seen accounts of vast sums of federal aid funds being available to Ohio. This, he says, is a mistake. There is no federal aid available except what has been obligated in contracts now under way.

RAILROAD SHOPS ARE CLOSED DOWN

Twenty-Five Hundred Men Idle in Huntington, West Virginia.

Huntington, West Virginia, March 19.—Local shops of the Chesapeake & Ohio railroad, employing 2,500 men, closed down at noon today. All employes save those necessary to make a few running repairs were laid off.

The shutdown came as a culmination to the continual cuts in the number of men employed. During the past few weeks, each department has been pared off.

No reasons have been given by the railroad officials here for the action, save that there is no work at the present time.

It is thought, among the men who were laid off, that the shops will remain closed until the middle of April, when the railroad wage agreement with the unions expires.

Cannon's Mate Killed.

Havana, March 19.—Walter Johns, a chief gunner's mate, was killed when he jumped from an airplane hydro which broke adrift from the battleship Florida, off Guantanamo, during maneuvers by the United States fleet.

A POLITICAL CRISIS OF FIRST MAGNITUDE

Caused by Retirement of Law, Says London Times.

London, March 19.—A political crisis of the first magnitude has been created by the retirement of A. Bonar Law from the British cabinet, it is declared by the London Times.

Other newspapers, while less emphatic, agree in saying that Mr. Bonar Law's resignation is certain to have considerable political effect and that it probably will materially weaken the coalition government.

It is pointed out that no successor to Mr. Bonar Law is likely to work so well with Prime Minister Lloyd George, and the Graphic even suggests that if Mr. Lloyd George is called upon to face a prospect of unsympathetic association, he may find the strain of office intolerable, and will follow Mr. Bonar Law into retirement.

There are many forecasts relative to the new Unionist leader whom the party will elect. Monday. Austen Chamberlain, chancellor of the exchequer; Sir Robert Horne, president of the board of trade, and Sir Edward Carson are given most prominent mention as being probable successors to Mr. Bonar Law.

Mr. Chamberlain, who is reported not to be in robust health, presumably would be appointed government leader in the house of commons in addition to the position of lord privy seal, and in such case might find it impossible to continue to hold the chancellorship.

Police Kill Bandit.

Chicago, March 19.—Facing more than 50 policemen, a bandit with a pistol in each hand was shot to death after he had kept up a steady fight with them until his ammunition was exhausted. Several policemen were wounded and one, Detective Mix, is in a critical condition. Mix saw the bandit loitering at a street corner and started to question him. The man opened fire and ran. Reinforcements came to Mix's rescue and the bandit finally was cornered.

Patrolman Convicted.

New York, March 19.—A verdict of guilty, with a strong recommendation for mercy, was returned in the case of Patrolman Cornelius J. Flood, charged with manslaughter in connection with the shooting of James Vosbing, 16, in July, 1918. The jury asked for mercy because of the good character of Flood and his brief experience as a policeman.

LOST SHEEP IS THEME OF EVANGELIST'S SERMON

Dr. George H. Birney Closes Series in The Holy Spirit.

Friday, Dr. George Hugh Birney closed a most unusual series of addresses upon "The Holy Spirit." Those who have availed themselves of this opportunity testified to a new enlightment of the scripture upon this subject. The scriptural setting of his evening address was "likewise joy shall be in heaven over one sinner that repenteth." "The one regret of my experience overseas," said Dr. Birney, "was that I was not privileged to hear the wonderful chimes and bells of Europe ring. For four long years these bell ropes were tied back, and their great tongues were silent. How wonderful it must have been upon Armistice day to hear their tongues unloosed, pealing forth the glad new news that peace had come to these war-torn lands.

"In the archives of memory there lingers the sweet music of a trinity of bells, never-to-be-forgotten bells: the old school bell, the old dinner bell, and the old church bell." In connection with this trinity of bells, Mr. Birney painted some pictures out of life as familiar as life itself.

In closing the speaker returned to the text picturing the anxiety of the shepherd over the one lost sheep, and the consequent joy over its rescue. "Likewise we have every reason to believe that there shall be joy, joy that shall make the very bells of heaven peal forth over the one sinner that repenteth and returneth to the Father's house," he said.

GENESIS OF HARDING; EXODUS OF WILSON

Paper Is Read by Henry Strelitz Here Yesterday.

The Marion Council of Jewish Women held a council Sabahth service in the Congregation of Israel room in the I. O. O. F. temple Friday evening. Henry Strelitz read an interesting lecture by Dr. I. Phiol, of Youngstown, on "The Genesis of Harding and the Exodus of Wilson." The attendance at the meeting was very good. The local congregation will celebrate the Feast of Purim, which is the story of Esther, with special services at the congregation's room, Wednesday evening at 7:30 o'clock. The children of the Sabbath school will give an entertainment a week from Sunday by giving a playlet in commemoration of the Feast of Purim.

MAJOR SAMUEL N. TITUS DIES AT EIGHTY-THREE

Grand Old Man of Marion Taken Early Today.

COLONEL, BUT PREFERS TO BE CALLED MAJOR

Funeral at the Epworth M. E. Church Monday at 1:30 P. M., with Masons in Charge.

Major Samuel Nye Titus, Marion's grand old man, died at his home, No. 478 east Center street, this morning at 12:50 o'clock.

Although Major Titus had passed his eighty-third year, he still remained active and attended to his duties as chief probation officer until about three weeks ago when he was taken ill. He suffered from inflammation of the bladder and, although his family and friends realized he was failing, his condition did not become critical until a week ago.

Perhaps no man was better known throughout the community than Major Titus, his military bearing, which he maintained until the end, singling him out from other men. Although it had been over half a century since he valiantly fought for his country; he had remained through all the years a soldier, both in appearance and loyalty. He made friends wherever he went by his jovial disposition and kind and pleasant manner; he was ever thoughtful of others and many of the good deeds of his life are recorded in his work as probation officer and during the time he served as township trustee.

Prominent in Masonry.

Major Titus was prominent in fraternal cirlse, belonging to all the local Masonic bodies. He was deeply interested in his church, having been affiliated with the Epworth M. E. church for the past fifteen years. He was a loyal member of Cooper Post, No. 117, G. A. R., in that body forming many of his dearest friendships with men, who like himself, fought for the union and endured the hardships and trials of the civil war.

Major Titus always took an active part in lodge work. He was tyler of all the local Masonic bodies for many years, and that of Marion Lodge, No. 70, Free and Accepted Masons, for over twenty years. He was one of the best known Grand Army men in this section of the country and in June, 1916, when the Ohio G. A. R. state encampment and golden jubilee was held in Marion, he was given the high honor of being chosen by that body as its senior vice commander. At the following convention at Akron he was talked of as commander, but he would not allow his friends to present his name. He had been commander of the local post several times and had held nearly every chair at different times.

A Charter Member.

When the Sons of the Revolution was organized here some time ago, Major Titis was one of the charter members, his great-grandfather having fought in the revolutionry war. He was also an obligated member of the Daughters of Veterans.

Major Titus had quite an interesting war record. He arose from the ranks as a private to the position of major and had conferred upon him the honor of a colonel for his deeds of bravery in one of the battles of the civil war, known as the battle of Jones' farm, located within sight of Richmond, Virginia. It was there that he was wounded and taken prisoner. Mr. Titus never wished to be known by the title of "Colonel" and his is probably the only instance of the kind in the history of the Grand Army where a man chose to be known by the lesser title than the one to which he was entitled.

At Outbreak of War.

At the outbreak of the civil war Major Titus, then a young man of about twenty-four, volunteered for service from Meigs county, of which he is a native, and enlisted in Columbus as a private in M company, Eleventh regiment, Pennsylvania Volunteer cavalry. He became a member of the Pennsylvania regiment owing to the lack of men in that state to make up this division and it being necessary to secure some from Ohio to fill in, he happened to be one of those chosen. He was soon sent to the camp at Washington and thence marched to Fortress Monroe, where he was stationed at Camp Hamilton. He was with General McClellan in his campaigns and although he did not take part in, he witnessed the battle between the Monitor and Merrimac and saw the Cumberland—the most formidable vessel of her class in the navy—sunk in Hampton Roads.

The same year of his enlistment Major Titus was promoted to sergeant and then to a lieutenancy. He was subsequently stationed at Suffolk, Virginia, and participated in many of the cavalry raids around Richmond. In the summer of 1863, he was promoted to the rank of captain and a short time after that of major. He took part in many of the engagements in the valley of the Potomac and the Peninsular campaign. He was at the siege of Suffolk and with General Butler in his operations around Richmond and with Grant's army at Petersburg.

Major Titus received a gunshot wound in his right elbow October 8, 1864, which crippled him for life. This was the only time he was seriously wounded in the war. He was a senior officer in command of a brigade and was in sight of Richmond when his brigade was ordered to fall back and he was shot through the right arm. After his arm was shattered he crawled three or four miles in an attempt to escape capture. He no doubt owes his life to his capture and the operation performed on him on the battle field by a Rebel surgeon. It was necessary for the surgeon to remove the shattered elbow joint and Mr. Titus has never had much use of his arm since.

In Libby Prison.

The major was confined about two weeks in the hospital department of Libby prison, but fortunately being acquainted with Colonel Moulton, commissioner of exchange, he secured a parole through him. Mr. Titus was a major at this time and it was on account of his brave deeds in this battle in which he was wounded that he was honored with the title of colonel.

After he was paroled, Major Titus was sent to Annapolis, where, after being in a hospital a short time, he was sent home on a furlough, arriving there the evening before Christmas, 1864. He remained at home three months, then went back and reported. Shortly afterward—in the spring of 1865—he was mustered out of service.

After being mustered out of service, Major Titus returned to Meigs county, where he had been reared on a farm, and in 1868 was elected to the Ohio legislature as a representative of Meigs county. He was reelected in 1870. After serving his term he came to Marion from Columbus and engaged in farming near Brush Ridge, in Grand Prairie township.

Married in 1872.

Major Titus was born at Rutland, a son of Mr. and Mrs. Stephen Titus. He was married November 14, 1872, to Miss Elanor Swinnerton, a granddaughter of James Swinnerton, a pioneer resident of Marion county. They resided on the homestead which James Swinnerton settled in 1819, and there Major Titus became a successful farmer and stock raiser. The last few years on the farm he engaged in making tile on his farm. Over thirty years ago he and his family came to Marion to reside. Since then he had always taken an active interest in civic life. Politically he was a Republican and for many years he was township trustee and he had been probation officer for the past fifteen years. He was assistant postmaster under Schiller Fogelson for two terms.

Mrs. Titus died five years ago this spring, her death having occurred April 20. Surviving Major Titus are his three daughters, Mrs. W. E. Baumert, who with her husband, resides at the Titus home; Miss Clara M. Titus, of Peoria, Illinois, and Mrs. Jay Vaughan, No. 130 west Mark street; and a sister, Mrs. Phoebe Gleason, of Medicine Lodge, Kansas.

Church Funeral Monday.

The funeral will be held from the Epworth M. E. church Monday afternoon at 1:30 o'clock and will be in charge of Maron Lodge, No. 70 Free and Accepted Masons, with Knights Templar escort.

Cooper Post will attend in a body as will other patriotic organizations.

Dr. Jesse Swank will conduct the services and interment will be made in the Brusch Ride cemetery, north of the city.

When Major Titus is laid to rest, four wars will be represented on the family burial lot. Mrs. Titus' father, James Swinnerton, fought in the war of the revolution; Major Titus in the civil war, and his son, the late Fred S. Titus, in both the Spanish American and World wars.

DR. GEORGE M. LANDIS ON THE SIN QUESTION

Says It's the World's Greatest Problem Today.

"The world's greatest question is the sin question," declared Dr. George M. Landis in his sermon on the "World's Greatest Question and Its Answer" at the Trinity Baptist church last evening. Continuing he said: "Every Apostle of reform gives a different diagnosis of the case, as to what malady afflicts the world. Back to the creed and important questions of the high cost of living of capital and labor intemperance, race hatreds, reconstructions and the league of nations; He the questions of greed, hatred, lust, pride and selfishness. Let us look at the greatest Book in our search for the greatest question.

"Beginning with Genesis 1-1 there are 195 punctuation marks in the Bible before we come to the first question mark. The first interrogation mark in human history occurs in Genesis 3:1, when the serpent questioned God's word, and introduced sin into this world.

"Sin affects directly or indirectly every phase and activity of life. If sin could be removed with all its baneful results, every doctor, lawyer, undertaker, tombstone maker, soldier, sailor and policeman would be hunting jobs or calling up the poorhouse for reservations. Every hospital, asylum, prison and penitentiary would be for rent. The banks could sell their vaults, safes, bolts, bars and keys to the junk man.

"The weakness in human remedies for sin is that they deal with effects rather than causes. They may change a man's ways, but can not change his heart. They can whitewash, but they can not wash white.

"God answered the sin question when He sent Jesus Christ into this world to bear man's sin, pay its penalty, break the power of the serpent, and meet man's need.

"The cross of Calvary is the answer to the world's greatest question. And now the unsaved are no longer confronted with the 'sin question,' but with the 'Son question' that is, 'What shall I do with Jesus?'"

The sermon this evening will have for its subject "Election Day." The talk for Sunday morning will be "The Preeminent Christ" and Sunday evening, "The Only Mediator."

HOW THE FAR EAST PROVIDED FOR THE FUTURE

It was in ancient Babylonia before numerals were conceived to record the passing of centuries or clocks to mark the fleeting of hours. History in retrospection places the date at about 2240 B. C.

The arid lands of King Hammurabi were often so scorched by tropical suns that they would yield no grain to feed his starving people. Famine would guide the steps of death through his kingdom.

In a year when the crops were abundant King Hammurabi ordered his people to build great granaries where the surplus of grain might be stored to feed them in a year when the crops might be poor.

Thus was born the idea of saving today to provide for tomorrow. Today is the tomorrow, and you can't save money yesterday. It has passed. You must save today.

The Citizens Building & Loan Company is keeping safe today's savings for thousands of depositors for their tomorrow's needs. Your money will earn you 5% compound interest and you will find us on the South side of west Center St., 4th door west of square. Come in and let us pay you 5% on your savings.
